Piano playing at its finest at Miners Foundry

THE UNION STAFF

Warm your soul with an evening of marvelous music for piano, champagne and delicious desserts as the Gold Country Piano Institute presents the Winter Gala Concert, a benefit for its summer Master Course scholarship fund. The evening takes place

Abigail Sin

Wednesday at Miners Foundry in Nevada City.

Two brilliant young pianists, Abigail Sin, 13, a resident of Singapore, and Pauline Yang, 18, of East Brunswick, N.J., will perform solo piano works by Haydn, Chopin, Schubert, Scriabin and Ginastera.

"Both young ladies impressed our audiences with their sensitive and virtuosic performances last June, so we are very excited to present them in our first-ever Alumni Concert," said Allan Haley, the organization's board president.

Sin began her piano lessons at 5 and currently studies with Thomas Hecht in her native Singapore. As a recipient of a scholarship, she has traveled extensively in Asia, Europe and the U.S., participating in competitions, master courses and performing. She has recently started to study the cello, as well.

Yang, a three-time Gold Country Piano Institute Master Course participant, has just entered USC as a scholarship student of renowned pianist John Perry. Her previous training included attending Juilliard School's pre-college division and studying with Lee Kum-Sing and Susan Starr. As a high school student, she won numerous national and international competitions, performed both solo and concerto performances in the U.S., Italy and Holland, and was a member of the National Honor Society, the National Italian Honor Society and her school's Model United Nations debate team.
